SUMMER SCHOOL ENGLISH LANGUAGE CURRICULUM FRAMEWORK

The Summer School English Language Curriculum Framework is planned in two parts as 9th -10th grades and 11th -12th grades. The duration for each part is determined as 48 hours. While A1-A2 levels are for 9th and 10th grade students, A2-A2+ levels are for 11th and 12th grade students. The curriculum seeks to teach students how to use English as a communication tool, how to use technology effectively, and how to learn how to study. According to their mental development levels, the curriculum is meant to assist students to develop their cognitive, emotional, psychomotor, and intercultural communication abilities.

This curriculum has been planned in accordance with the descriptive and pedagogical principles of the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR). The A1-A2+ Summer School English Language Curriculum Framework is designed to assist foreign language teachers in creating an engaging and interactive classroom environment, as well as students in understanding the importance of developing foreign language learning for their personal, social, and cultural development.

Regarding the implementation of the A1-A2+ Summer School English Language Curriculum Framework, there is not a certain approach prescribed in accordance with the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages. Because the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages considers learners social agents to achieve everyday tasks using the language, which goes with the Action-Oriented Approach, the essence of which is what you can do with the language rather than what or how much you know. As long as the implementation of the curriculum content caters for actions to be carried out using the language, the methodology is up to the teacher. It is vital that the teacher consider the needs, levels and interests of the students.

One of the most essential objectives in foreign language instruction is for students to be able to communicate orally in the target language. Speaking happens at the same time as the students' cognitive and psychomotor abilities. Effective skills, such as the student's self-confidence, also influence speaking. Supporting factors include appropriately applying pronunciation standards and successfully using nonverbal communication techniques such as gestures and mimes.

Communication methods can be employed for a variety of goals, including improving speaking fluency, repeating points that are unclear, and expressing the same emotion using alternative words and structures.

Furthermore, in the A1-A2+ Summer School English Language Curriculum Framework, collaboration among students is emphasized over competition because collaborative activities are more in line with the natural process of language learning, in which learners interact with one another to negotiate meaning and practice interpersonal skills necessary to become effective communicators.

Oral narratives such as presentations and providing opinions are carried out in speaking activities without expecting a response from other people. The presentation can be prepared or spontaneous (such as giving short answers to questions about the topics in a text that is read or heard). Dialogs are face-to-face activities. The activities should be developed with the different types of speech in mind in order for the students to acquire the ability for oral narrative and conversation. Students should be encouraged to express themselves in the classroom through appropriate, attractive, and interesting topics, and activities and/or methods to improve speaking skills (dialog, discussion, conversation, presentation, storytelling, communication games, etc.) should be selected in accordance with their levels.

Within the Summer School English Language Curriculum Framework, some in-class activities are given as an example to give ideas to teachers. Teachers can find preferred instructional materials which are attractive in presentation, authentic in content/use, culturally sensitive, unbiased toward learners'/others' cultures/genders, and multisensory in design. Some research-based and digital interactive activities are also provided for the students who are digital natives.

ESSENTIAL ISSUES FOR THE APPLICATION OF THE SUMMER SCHOOL ENGLISH LANGUAGE CURRICULUM FRAMEWORK

- ▶ Communication in the classroom is in English as much as possible.
- ▶ The main aim is to strengthen students' communication skills, rather than covering all the objectives in the curriculum framework.
- ▶ Real-life English is constantly practiced in various contexts to effectively communicate in English.
- ▶ Four language skills are practiced in an integrated way and parallel to the first language acquisition process.
- ▶ Students are both active and creative participants who provide input to each other during communicative activities and produce language materials and tasks with the guidance of their teachers.
- ▶ Learners are allowed to discover meaning from context and/or given clues.
- ▶ A variety of interaction types (individual work, pair work, group work, whole class) are used during the lessons.
- ▶ Unfamiliar topics are presented in English by building on what is familiar to students.
- ▶ Multimedia and instructional technology tools are used as much as possible to immerse students in the authentic use of English.
- ▶ High motivation and a stress-free atmosphere are supported through enjoyable and various types of games and activities.

9th-10th Grades Summer School English Language Curriculum Framework (A1-A2)

Themes	Learning Objectives	Activities and Games for Learning Objectives	Study Time
1 Introducing Yourself	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Students will be able to introduce themselves and their family members. 2. Students will be able to exchange personal information in both formal and informal situations. 3. Students will be able to talk about possessions. 	Introduce Your Friend Put the students in pairs. Give them 5 minutes to ask and answer the questions about themselves and their family members. Then, have students introduce their pairs to the class.	4 hours
		Similar and Different Enable students to work in groups and ask them to write down three ways in which s/he thinks s/he and his/her partner is similar and different. Students are asked not to show their friends what they have written. Partners in the groups tell each other about similarities and differences and then, discuss whether what they have written were right or wrong.
		Guess Who Divide the class into two groups. Each group will choose a famous character. Group members will inform the teacher about who they have chosen. Students in Group B will start asking questions to the members of Group A to guess who the famous person is. They will be limited to 5 questions. After asking 5 questions, if they can guess the name successfully, Group B will receive 1 point. Then, it will be Group A's turn to ask questions. They will also try to guess the name by asking 5 questions in total. The game will continue until one of the groups collects 5 points.
		Job Interview Prepare some common job interview questions to the class. First, students will be asked to come up with more questions that could be asked in different types of job interviews. After they have decided on the questions, each student chooses their partner. Then, each pair performs a job interview to practice. When each pair completes their practice, they perform the job interview in front of all the class members.

2 My Environment	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Students will be able to ask about and describe their neighborhoods. 2. Students will be able to ask about the location of things and places. 3. Students will be able to give directions. 4. Students will be able to make comparisons. 	Battle Tanks The students will be put in pairs. In each pair, one student is the ‘tank’ and the other student is the ‘driver’. There will be two teams playing each time. The ‘tanks’ will be blindfolded. Two softballs will be placed somewhere in the classroom. The drivers will give directions to their tank e.g., go straight, turn right, etc. to find the softball. When a tank touches the ball, s/he can take off their blindfold and tries to hit the other team’s tank with the softball. If the ball hits the tank, the team wins. If the ball misses, the tank puts his/her blindfold back on and the driver guides the tank to the ball again. When a team wins, the game is repeated with the next four students and so on. <hr/> Town Plan Put students in groups of 6. Give each group copies of a map and a set of information cards which have information about the places on the map. Each group tries to collect all the information and mark it on their map. The groups now have to plan a weekend trip in the town. They will decide which places they want to see. They have to organize a walking tour. They are not allowed to use any transportation. They will discuss the best directions to visit all the places they would like to see. The group members will report their walking route to the class members. <hr/> Suggested Activities in Games and Activities Book 9: Theme 1 <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Don’t Say the Word (Activity 5, page 9) • Lost ID Cards (Activity 6, page 10) • If False, Correct it! 3 Preferences	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Students will be able to express their opinions about free-time activities. 2. Students will be able to talk about their likes/dislikes, preferences of hobbies and free-time activities. 3. Students will be able to refuse and accept an invitation. 4. Students will be able to express their preferences of movies. 	Think-Pair-Share The main element of this activity is peer interaction which provides active learner engagement. There are three steps to follow in the process of the activity. First, the students are given a list of 5 movies to think about independently for some time. Then, they work in pairs and discuss their opinions. In the last step, they share their likes and dislikes about the movies with the whole group. In this way, a great deal of interaction may occur while students actively reflect on their ideas. <hr/> Suggested Activities in Games and Activities Book 9: Theme 3 <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Giving Your Opinion (Activity 6, pages 53) • Preferences Board Game (Activity 7, page 53) • Lovely Weekend (Activity 8, page 54) • Quick Decline (Activity 9, page 54) 	4 hours

4 Daily Routines	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Students will be able to talk about their daily routines. 2. Students will be able to ask and answer questions about their daily activities and the frequencies of those activities. 3. Students will be able to talk about their abilities. 	Battle Tanks Ask every student in the class to fill in a timetable that shows their daily routines. After students complete the timetables, collect the timetables. Divide students into two groups. One student from Group A and one student from Group B will be asked to leave the classroom. Members of Group A and B will try to guess their friend's timetable. During their discussion, they will ask questions such as "Does s/he play football on weekends? / Does s/he take any language courses on Saturdays?" etc. Then, students will come back to the classroom. Compare students' timetable and the timetable that the other group members have guessed. The group which makes more correct guesses wins. <hr/> Oral Presentation Start a discussion about the famous people who have been very successful, e.g., Aziz Sancar, Elon Musk, Canan Dağdeviren, etc. Then, each student will choose a famous person. Students will be given time to search for information about the famous person and they will prepare an oral presentation about the daily routines of that person. After each student makes his/her presentation, students will have a whole-class discussion on the common daily routines of the successful people. <hr/> Suggested Activities in Games and Activities Book 9: Theme 4 <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • An Ordinary Day (Activity 5, page 76) • Getting to know each other (Activity 6, page 76) • The Wheel Game (Activity 7, page 77) • How often do you...? 5 Travelling	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Students will be able to take part in a dialogue about ordering food at a restaurant/cafe. 2. Students will be able to use the most frequently used expressions to buy a flight/bus/train ticket. 3. Students will be able to book a room at a hotel/a table in a restaurant, etc. 4. Students will be able to take part in a dialogue in a group to make a travel plan. 	Travel Plans Explain the imaginary situation below to students: “You have got a one-week holiday and you plan to spend it together with your friends. You meet at a cafe to organize your holiday. Prepare an individual plan and share it with your pair. This individual plan should be a detailed one including your ideas about where to go, how to go there, where to stay, and what to do during your holiday, etc. After everybody’s plan is discussed one by one, you should make a final plan. Each one of you should speak for at least 3 minutes. Record your discussion. Listen to your task with your pair. Reflect on your performance with your pair and please record your reflection session.” Role Play: At the Restaurant Put students in groups of four. One of the group members will act as the waiter/waitress at a restaurant. Other group members will act as a group of friends ordering food at a restaurant. Students will be provided with a menu and role-play cards. They will prepare it in 5 minutes and then act it out. Suggested Activities in Games and Activities Book 9: Theme 6 <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Different Places, Different People (Activity 5, pages 124) • Find the Country (Activity 6, page 124) • Dreaming of Somewhere (Activity 7, page 125) • At the Cafe (Activity 8, page 125) • Enjoy Your Meal (Activity 9, page 126) 	4 hours

6 Current Actions	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> Students will be able to describe current actions in pictures. Students will be able to do the shopping. Students will be able to talk about what is happening at the time of speaking. 	What Are They Doing? Put students into two equal groups and the one group is given a copy of a picture with 10 people who are performing different actions and the other group is provided with a copy of a different picture on which there is one missing person. Each student in each group is asked to tell what each different person is doing on the given picture. The group members who have the missing person try to find who this person is and what s/he is doing by asking questions. Pantomime Several piles of small pieces of paper with descriptions of people (e.g., an old man or a bus conductor), names of objects, photos or drawings of people and objects are provided to the students. Each student in the class takes a piece of paper from a pile and mimes the person or the object. The other students guess. Performances of each student are discussed as a class to choose the best mimer. Suggested Activities in Games and Activities Book 9: Theme 5 <ul style="list-style-type: none"> What is Happening? Students will be able to make requests. 3. Students will be able to express obligations, responsibilities, and prohibitions in social life. 	Case-Study-Based Group Discussion Give different cases to students which are related to difficult real-life situations. First, students read their cases in detail and try to give suggestions for the given ones. Then, they try to find solutions to them during their discussions in groups by reflecting on their relevant experience. When they finish talking about a case, a new one is provided, and so they discuss four or five cases during class time.	4 hours
		Gallery Walk The aim of this activity is to talk about the well-known quotes written on the walls in the classroom. Before the activity, stick four sheets of paper, including quotes from famous people and some questions about the quotes onto the walls. Then, students walk around the classroom and discuss the quotes in groups.

Students will be able to make predictions about the future. 3. Students will be able to talk about their own plans for the future. 4. Students will be able to express their ideas in unplanned situations. 	Fishbowl Activity Divide students into two groups; an inner group and an outer group, seated in two circles. The first group of students (the inner group) discusses what environmental problems we will face in 2050 and what we will do to overcome those problems by asking questions and sharing their opinions. The second group (the outer group) surrounds the first group in a circle, observing and listening to the problem-solving efforts of the first group. They may contribute to the discussion by giving comments, advice, and guidance to the students in the first group. At the end of a period of time, the students in each circle switch roles to practice being both contributors and listeners in a group discussion.	6 hours
		Bingo Students are asked to brainstorm a list of exciting or interesting experiences they will have in the following summer holiday. Students write these experiences on a blank Bingo board. On your signal, students mingle searching for someone who has the same summer plan. The first person with 5 initialed affirmatives in a row shout "Bingo" and wins the game.

Students will be able to retell a story by describing characters and places. 3. Students will be able to talk about a historical legendary figure in Turkish history. 	Strip Story Select a story about a historical legendary figure in Turkish history. Each sentence is written on a separate strip of paper. It is important that there are enough number of sentences for each student in the class. Give each student a strip of paper with one sentence on it. The student does not show his/her sentence to other class members. Each student is given two minutes to memorize his/her sentence. Then, collect all the papers. Tell students that the sentences they have memorized make up a story and asks students to put their sentences in a meaningful sequence to complete the story. The students are not allowed to write anything. Students present the order of sentences they have decided and tell the story. Give them feedback on their sequence.	4 hours
		Tell Us a Story Divide students into groups of four to seven. Each member of the group is asked to retell his/her version of a story as a legendary figure with the same basic plot. Each student is asked to write the basic stages of the story and guess the legendary figure. When everyone has told their stories, ask students to reveal who each legendary figure is.

1 Getting to Know Each Other	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Students will be able to name collocations with make, feel, work, and get. 2. Students will be able to talk about themselves and their personalities. 3. Students will be able to make a digital story by creating funny characters. 4. Students will be able to ask for clarification. 5. Students will be able to exchange ideas about their life preferences. 6. Students will be able to agree or disagree with others by sharing their opinions about celebrities. 	Choose your Corner Prepare four cardboards with the verbs make, feel, work, and get, and 20 cards with words which go with the verbs (... a film, ... a present, ... ill, ... in an office, etc.). Give the cardboards to four students and have them stay in the four corners of the classroom. Give each of the other students a card with the word(s) which go with one of the four verbs. Tell them to go to the student with the correct cardboard for their words. When all students are in the 'corner' of their choice, the students with the verbs check the 'words' in their corners. They may send the wrong 'words' to another corner at this point. Check all the words and give feedback. Give the summary of the frequently used collocations belonging to those categories by writing them on the board. Who am I? Hand out paper sheets and tell students to write four interesting sentences about themselves: two for their likes and two for their dislikes. Tell them that one of the sentences will have false information. Warn them they shouldn't write their names and they are not to show their information to anyone. You can give examples based on your own likes and dislikes. When they finish writing, collect the papers and put them in a basket. Tell students to stand up and pick a piece of paper from the basket. Tell them to read out the information written and try to find the person who wrote it by asking yes/no questions. Depending on the students' levels, you can use any structure. Colors Tell Something Ask the following questions to your students. What is your favorite color? How do you think that your color tells something about your personality? Search colors' meaning about personality. Next, choose the color that you don't like and search its meaning about personality as well. Discuss them with your friend. Analyze the chart below.  BLACK You are intelligent and love to discuss serious things. BLUE You like fresh air and being outdoors and tell others what to do. BROWN You like to be in charge and tell others what to do. GREEN You care about the environment and love animals. PINK You love to laugh and don't take things too seriously. PURPLE You like to be alone and "do your own thing". RED You have strong feelings and a quick temper. WHITE You love things to be neat and clean, and you always plan ahead. YELLOW You are a happy, friendly person, and you love being in the sun.  Do you and your partner have the personality explained for your favorite colors?	8 hours

2 Words Tell Something	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Students will be able to ask Whquestions and talk about each other. 2. Students will be able to define and use the vocabulary items they have learned. 3. Students will be able to understand parts of a story and come up with the whole story by commenting on parts together with their friends. 4. Students will be able to write their own cartoons within the groups. 5. Students will be able to make comments about moral values and norms in different cultures 6. Students will be able to discuss manners in different cultures. 7. Students will be able to make comments on moods by looking at flashcards. 	Question Race Divide the class into two groups as Group A and Group B and ask students to sit facing each other. Give five cards to each one. Tell the students that they will write five sentences each in any tense with objects and time markers and underline a part of the sentences to turn into questions. Remind them that they need to underline a different part for each sentence. When they finish writing and underlying their sentences, tell the students to put their cards faced down on a desk. Next, each member from Group A will go and pick up a card from one of the students from Group B, go back and form a question of the underlined part in a minute. Then it will be Group B's turn to do the same activity. In the end, give feedback to the whole class. Definitions Lists Choose a vocabulary topic (this can be vocabulary you have recently studied or a topic you want to introduce). Tell students to write a list of ten words they associate with this topic. To make the activity shorter, reduce the number of words. Pre-teach or revise structures for definitions, e.g. It's a thing which / that ... You use it for ... You find this in ... It's an animal / object / place ... It's the opposite of ... etc. Tell students to look at their lists and give them a few minutes to think of how they can define these words. Now students work in pairs (or groups of three) and define their words to the rest of the class. The class must guess the word they are defining. Order the Story Before the class, find a cartoon with at least four vignettes. The cartoon can be with or without a dialogue. The more vignettes and more elements in the story, the more difficult the task is. Print the cartoon and cut up the vignettes. Put students into pairs and divide the vignettes equally between student A and student B. Give students time to think about how to describe their pictures and ask for any vocabulary they need. Pre-teach any difficult vocabulary that has not come up as well as phrases for talking about pictures and sequencing, e.g. In my picture there is ... I can see ... I think this is the first/ second last picture ... Then ... After that ... Tell students to work together to put the story in the correct order. Write the Dialogue Wake a comic strip, cartoon or unusual image in which there are several people or characters. If there is dialogue or captions, blank it out. Display the comic strip / cartoon / image and elicit ideas from students about what is happening in it. Elicit answers for the following questions: Who are the people / characters? What are they doing? What happens next? What are they saying to each other? Put students in pairs or small groups. Tell them to work together and write the dialogue and/or captions for the comic strip, cartoon or image. Students practice their dialogues and read their version out to the class.	8 hours

		Guess It Have each student write five facts about himself/herself on a post-it note, then put the notes on the board (Write one fact about you, too). Choose one and read it aloud. Try to guess who has written it. When you get the right student, that person takes a turn with the remaining notes. Continue until all the notes are gone.

Students will be able to state reasons while giving clear detailed descriptions about physical appearances. 5. Students will be able to report on the appearances and personalities of other people. 	What's the Question? Write a list of questions (one per student in your class) relating to your chosen topic. For example, if your topic is about music, you could think of questions such as Who is your favorite singer? What is your favorite music to dance to? What's the best concert you have ever been to? Who is a singer / group you dislike? etc. Adapt the questions to the level of your class. Give each student a question. Tell students to write the answer to their question (but not the question itself) on a piece of paper or a sticky label. Tell them not to show anyone their answer yet. Tell the class the topic (e.g. music, sports, etc). Give students five minutes with a partner to brainstorm possible questions related to this topic. Now tell students to stand up and stick their label on their chest or hold their paper with their answer in front of them. Students move around the room and ask each other questions to try to discover the questions that the other students were originally asked. Encourage students to ask follow-up questions and try to have a conversation, e.g. Student A: What's the best concert you've ever been to? Student B: Robbie Williams' concert. Student A: When was the concert? Student B: In 2017. Student A: Why was it good? Student B: Yes, it was good because ... Give feedback and ask students what they have found out. <hr/> Which Game? You and a friend of yours are deciding which video game to play after school. Decide together which game you will play, which house you will go to and who you will invite. (Two students will choose different games and try to persuade the other. Make sure each student includes their name on the top of the page. Collect the sheets of paper and bring three students to the front of the classroom. Read aloud one of the facts that is true for one of these three students. All the three students claim that the fact is theirs, and the class then proceeds to question them in an attempt to determine who is telling the truth and who is giving a false statement. Each student is allowed to ask one question to one of the three students. After a round of questioning, the students guess who is telling the truth. Variations on the Game Taboo For variation 1, create a presentation with a noun on each slide. Have one student come to the front of the room and sit with their back to the presentation. The rest of the students take turns describing the words on the slides, and the student at the front has to guess them. For variation 2, separate the students into groups of four or five. Place a pile of cards with random nouns in the center of each group. Have students take turns describing a noun for their group members to guess. The group member who guesses correctly keeps the card, so there's competition to see who has the most cards at the end of the game. Variation 3 is for advanced speakers. Separate the class into two teams. Students are given a word to describe to their teammates, in addition to a list of words that they cannot use in their description. Each student should have two to three minutes to see how many words their teammates can guess. Descriptive Drawing Activity Pair up the students and give each student a picture, placing it face down so partners cannot see each other's cards.
